

Donald Pagel, 9, Dies From Injuries in Car Bicycle Head-on Crash

Funeral of Oakwood Knolls Child at 1:30 p.m. Fri. at Methodist Church

Donald Elroy Pagel, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Pagel, of 333 Elmwood Lane, Oakwood Knolls, was fatally injured at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle on State Line rd., (North Avenue) a mile and a half east of the village.

He died while on his way to Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, in the Antioch Rescue squad ambulance.

Sheriff's deputies said the boy was riding east on the westbound lane of traffic. As he neared the crest of a hill, Joseph Sterbenz, Jr., of 920 David st., Antioch, driving west, came over the hill.

The deputies were told by Sterbenz that he swerved to the left in an attempt to avoid hitting the boy and the boy reportedly turned in the same direction.

Sterbenz' car skidded about 85 feet, struck the bicycle and the boy, throwing them some distance. Death came to the child from a head injury.

The bicycle was demolished and the car's windshield was damaged. Sheriff's police, who investigated, said that no charge was placed against Sterbenz.

Donald, a pupil in the third grade taught by Mrs. Barthel at the Antioch Grade School, was born at Wau-sau, Wis., Sept. 15, 1948, and at the age of six weeks was taken by his family to Chicago where they resided until last summer when they moved to Oakwood Knolls.

Besides the parents, Elroy and Dolores Pagel, Donald is survived by a brother, Thomas, 4; two sisters, Sandra, 12, and Cheryl, 1; and the maternal grandparents, Michael and Emily Cusak, Chicago.

The funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday at the Antioch Methodist church with the Rev. Wallace Anderson officiating. Burial will be in the Liberty cemetery, Salem Township, Wis. The body will rest at the Strang Funeral home until 12:30 p. m. on the day of burial.

Jeep Used by Firemen To Get to Tractor Fire

A jeep used by firemen to fight slough fires proved its worth Monday when it was used to cross farmland at the Elmer Kruse farm on Rte. 173 east of Antioch to extinguish a blaze in a tractor.

Six grass fires, three on the same day, claimed the attention of the Antioch firemen. The time of the calls were as follows:

April 2, 12:50 p. m.—Leo Blythe subdivision on Beach Grove road; 2:10 p. m. Gus and Helen's Resort on Grass Lake road; 7:25 p. m., Felter Subdivision, Grass Lake road.

Buying Stocks out of Income

Americans like to buy things out of income. That is true of corporation stocks as well as cars and appliances. And pay-as-you-go stock buying differs from other installment buying in a way which is of great advantage to the buyer.

Only four years ago a monthly investment plan, known as MIP, was started. An investor can participate for as little as $40 a quarter. He selects the stocks he wants and makes his payments to a broker of his choice. The broker then buys for him whatever number of shares or fractions of shares the payment will cover. If, for any reason, he abandons his plan he gets the shares he has purchased.

In those four years, 124,000 MIP accounts have been started. Of these, 58,200 have been completed, terminated or transferred into regular brokerage accounts, while 66,700 are in force. So far, each year has topped the record of the preceding one. As of a recent date, more than $80 million had been so invested.

One of MIP's most attractive features is that it permits what the investment people call dollar cost averaging. In other words, by investing fixed sums at regular intervals, the investor acquires more shares when the price declines and fewer shares when it rises. Thus, over the long pull, the ups and downs of the market are smoothed.

Best of all, MIP is of primary service and interest to investors of modest means. It is these investors who are proving the workability and vitality of democratic capitalism.

We Can Count on the Weeklies

The American Press states that: "... the continuation of country weeklies is one of the few things we can count upon in this troubled world." Here are some of the reasons why.

People who read metropolitan dailies do so as a matter of duty in order to get the "big news." But, if they live in a suburban town or rural area, they read the country weekly because they want it. It gives the local stories that mean something in their lives.

Respected weeklies have survived every crisis which ever hit this country because merchants, in small towns will continue to advertise in their local weekly come depression or prosperity. It is a sure way of bringing in customers.

Circulation of weeklies is going up because there are more people living in the suburbs and in the country. Big city papers are doing well to keep even.

More and more weeklies are being published right in the heart of metropolitan cities to fill the insatiable demand of people for local and neighborhood news and advertisements of neighborhood stores.

The nation's thousands of hometown newspapers are heading for their biggest period of growth, influence and responsibility. They are champions of the idea that the individual must own property and get ahead according to his ability in a free economy to retain the priceless right of political self determination under a representative form of government. The free press is our best defense against tyranny.

Three Years of Salk Vaccine

Just three years ago this April the Salk vaccine was officially pronounced safe and effective and licensed for use by the U. S. Government.

Since then, the polio picture in this country has undergone a radical change. Before the Salk vaccine we struggled with an erratic but mounting series of polio epidemics that reached their peak in 1952 with 57,879 cases. Last year, owing to widespread vaccination, the number dropped to 5,894. By this time it is clear that the Salk vaccine, developed on grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is one of the triumphant milestones in the history of modern medical science.

What, in the meantime, has happened to vaccination?

The first year it was given mainly to school children—some 10 million of them. The second year it was made available to young persons up to 20 and expectant mothers, and some 35 million were injected. Last year a crash vaccination program directed at all persons under 40 added 20 million more, making a total of 65 million.

A big job done in a remarkably short time.

But not good enough. For Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, warns us that, with 46 million Americans still unvaccinated, we may still have polio epidemic next summer.

The answer? There is enough vaccine for everybody now, regardless of age. It's painless. It's inexpensive. It's effective protection against a lifetime of paralysis.

A Dole for the U. S.?

The Portland Oregonian says: "With the 'panic button' being pushed by many hands . . . for rush legislation to halt the recession, there is a clear and present danger of getting 'emergency' laws which will become a permanent burden to production, expansion and employment." This observation was prompted by proposed legislation which, in effect, would federalize unemployment insurance and supercede the state laws. Benefits would be increased, the period during which compensation is paid would be lengthened, and the tax (which is paid entirely by employers) would be raised. The experience rating provision, under which employers with stable employment get lower rates than those with big personnel turnover, would be abandoned.

As the Oregonian sees it: "It is almost inconceivable that Congress, made up of representatives of the states, would submit even in panic to what would certainly end in all-out federalization of unemployment compensation. Employment and living conditions are greatly in variance over the country. . . . The ability of employers to sustain high benefits and a healthy economy is not the same in all states. Yet the drive for federalization . . . would deprive the states of discretion in the matter." The paper adds, "with full justice, that the result would be 'not earned compensation', but the dole."

If the pushers of that "panic button" have their way, we're going to have a degree of inflation that really will curl the national hair. It's becoming obvious that the current recession is providing a crucial test of the American character.

Auxiliary News

Antioch Unit No. 748, American Legion Auxiliary met Friday evening, April 11, Nancy Zitkus, president, presiding. Much business was transacted at the meeting, after which refreshments were served by Rose Kennedy, Mary Runyard and their committee.

Pan-American Program

April has been designated as Pan-American month in all Auxiliary Units. Honduras is the country to be studied this year. Pan-American chairman of Antioch unit, Louise Radke, gave a most interesting talk on the government, cultural background, etc., of the country. Honduras is noted for its large banana plantations, fine mahogany and rich silver mines. Spanish is the language spoken by the nearly million and a half people who make up its population. Honduras is a republic and, under its present constitution, the government is divided into three branches—legislative, executive and judicial; not too unlike the U. S. government. The president is elected by popular vote of the people. September 15 is observed as their Independence Day. One of the world's most air-minded countries, Honduras is the birthplace of TACA, which covers Central America and is noted for the large volume of cargo it carries. Tegucigalpa is the capital city, and it stands as it was originally built, quaint streets of stairs connecting one level with another. It is a matter of law that every roof shall be of red tile. This is a capital city with five airways but with no railroad.

Party at Downey

Antioch Unit was co-hostess at a party for patients at Downey Veterans' Hospital on Tuesday, April 8. Dorothy Horan, rehabilitation chairman, and Pearl Anderson attended and helped serve refreshments. Mrs. Horan reported having taken to the hospital 344 magazines, 96 pocket edition books, 15 lbs. of carpet rags, 9 lbs. of new dress material and 30 dress patterns.

written by Sharon Dittman, a pupil at Antioch High school. All winning essays were sent to the Tenth District for further judging and Sharon's essay was chosen third winner in Class II from the essays submitted by all the units of the district.

MUSIC NIGHTS AT LAKE VILLA LIBRARY

Friday night will be Music Night at the Lake Villa Township Library. Mrs. Ted Belke, librarian, invites township residents to spend a quiet evening listening to good records and reading an interesting book at their library from 7 to 9 p. m. This innovation will continue if enough interest is shown in the program.

Several excellent books, encyclopedia and magazine gifts have recently been received from Mrs. Charles Wullenbacher and Mr. and Mrs. Shehron of Lake Villa, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Webster of Venetian Village, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Behrendt of Lindenhurst, Mr. Charles Petty of Deep Lake, and Mr. Martin and Mr. Emerson.

Baptist Bible Church Starts Revival Service, Indian, Special Speaker

The first series of revival meetings in the history of the Baptist Bible Church of Round Lake Beach, will be held April 20 through April 27.

The new pastor, Rev. James A. Watt, will serve as Evangelist, preaching nightly at 7:30 p. m. Bob Owen will be the song leader. As a special feature on Friday, April 25, Mrs. Marie C. Watt, the pastor's wife, will give in testimony her unusual conversion experience.

For the first day only, April 20, Rochunga Pudaite from a one-time head hunting tribe of India, will speak. Once a member of a head-hunting tribe in Northeastern India, Rochunga Pudaite has now become a missionary to his own people. Brought to this country by Dr. Billy Graham, and Dr. Bob Pierce, Rochunga is now doing post graduate work at Wheaton College in Wheaton, Illinois.

Today, besides his studies at Wheaton, he has revised his own New Testament translation, and is translating the first Old Testament into the dialect of Hmar. Though Rochunga is never without his smile, his heart carries a heavy burden for the 16 tribes of his native state of Assam and Manipur, India, who have not heard the Gospel. These areas are already a closed land for foreign missionaries, but Rochunga is organizing trained Indian Christian workers to go even into the most remote areas of the country. "My country," said Rochunga, "is a country without a jail because there are so many Christians. The reason there are so many Christians is because when a man accepts Christ he immediately goes and tells his neighbor."

"My people were head-hunters but now they are heart-hunters!"

The Antioch Aqua Center Presents "Zimmer the Swimmer & Safety Sam"

DON'T SWIM TOO SOON AFTER EATING THAT PICNIC LUNCH

This young man seems to be enjoying himself, doesn't he? It is always fun to bring a picnic lunch to the pool or beach—but we hope he doesn't plan to go swimming right after that heavy meal. The rule is to wait at least a full hour after eating, before going swimming. Another thing to remember is not to clutter up the pool or beach area with pop bottles, papers and left over food. Use the disposal containers that are always placed in a picnic area.

A lot of us go to the pool or beach as a family or group of friends to picnic and swim. If we all recognize this important water safety rule we not only protect ourselves from the danger of cramps and indigestion caused by swimming too soon after eating, but our pools and beaches will be clean, pleasant, and free from contamination.

The Antioch pool together with the adjoining park make a good setting for a picnic and swimming party as Bar-B-Q ovens and picnic tables are available in this tree shaded area—let's remember though—don't swim too soon after eating that big picnic lunch.

A season ticket application for the Antioch pool is printed in this issue of the Antioch News. Your season tickets will be mailed promptly upon receipt of the application together with your check.

We Could Use These Millions For Defense

The new Soviet Russian challenge to the free world—her successes in the missile and satellite fields—cannot be answered by federal government "spending as usual" for non-essential civilian programs.

Everybody, from President Eisenhower to the man on the street, seems to agree that our new, all-out defense effort means that civilian spending must be cut to the bone.

Yet in the 1959 federal budget, expenditures are proposed that show not only a complacent spending-as-usual attitude but continued dupli-

COUNTING AUDIENCES

In a theatre you count the admission tickets and you know how large your audience is. For television audience counts you have a problem that is colossal. There are polls of many types, but basically they depend upon a law of averages to get a total figure. Advertisers aren't always satisfied with these counts; any poll based on averages has loop holes for error.

However, now they're experimenting with a tiny built-in transmitter which would send back a signal giving the station number and time. If this is successful, all new TV sets would have the device added.

Our customer count at ECONOMY TV, on Rte. 173, 1 1/2 miles west of Antioch has increased steadily, and we know that it is our quick and modern electronic equipment that pleases the folks. Phone ANTIOCH 1454.

modity Credit Corporation intends to spend nearly two and one half billion dollars to remove surplus farm produce from the market. Similarly, the government has budgeted $111 million for "soil conservation," and $232 million for "agricultural conservation." Here is a duplication of services that cannot be justified at any time and certainly not in a period when the need for rigid government economy is critically urgent.

Americans should make it known to their Congressmen that they want waste and costly duplication in federal government stopped. We need these millions for defense!

Kite flying can be all fun with the observance of a few simple rules. Public Service Company safety experts point out. A utility circuitman, above, cautions a youngster to stay clear of overhead wires.

GO FLY YOUR KITE!

Kite flying can be all fun if it's done safely. So when your child goes out to enjoy the "sport of kids," have him go to an open, level area away from traffic and obstructions.

To remind your youngsters to avoid a possible hazard involved in this popular spring sport, Owen Fordham, local district superintendent for Public Service Company, makes the following suggestions:

1. Don't fly a kite near electric wires.
2. Don't climb poles, or enter fenced-off danger areas to retrieve a snagged kite. As the National Safety Slogan reads: "Butter lose a kite than your life."
3. Never use metal in the construction of any part of a kite, including tail and string.
4. Don't fly kites during an electrical storm, or when the string is wet.

CHERRY VALLEY

Fruit Cocktail

3 29-Oz. Cans $1

If you've always thought all fruit cocktail was alike, then you have a surprise waiting for you when you open a can of Cherry Valley Fruit Cocktail. It's Jewel's own luscious blend of tree-ripened peaches, juicy pears, seedless grapes, red cherries and tangy pineapple.

Because you use fruit cocktail for the appetizing touch it adds to salads, gelatin molds and desserts, only cleanly-cut dices of fruit go into Cherry Valley Fruit Cocktail. This means you never get a lot of little fruit fragments.

And think of this—Jewel buyers check every shipment for good bright flavor and perfectly ripened fruit. Why? Because, for example, if pears are too ripe they "powder" off into tiny pieces and cloud the syrup. And if they are too green, they're hard to the bite. Among professional buyers this sampling process is called "cutting"—it's their way of assuring you of that famous Jewel quality.

Imagine the dozens of glamorous desserts and salads you can make if you win a whole case of Cherry Valley Fruit Cocktail playing Jewel Extra Value Line-Up. Remember, you're always the winner when you rely on Jewel quality!

Family CampingProves Popular

By Howard E. Weaver
Professor of Recreation, University of Illinois

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—In a period of history that justifiably focuses public attention on the atom, rockets and outer space, the American family is turning to the land—the main spring of man's past and future existence and well-being. The lure of the out-of-doors is calling millions who seek the economy, beauty, solitude and countless activities to be gained in outdoor living.

Unlike most activities, camping is bringing the family together as a working and playing team. Members of the family are free to pursue individual interests and swim, boat, fish, hike, or just sleep and take it easy.

More than nine million persons camped in the nation's state parks last summer. Many families were turned away from already overcrowded campgrounds. Michigan alone was forced to turn away more than 14,000 families who arrived at one state park too late to get a campsite.

Camping in national parks and national forests is also booming. Last year the National Park Service had to build and improve camping facilities for 8,000 campers per day. The U. S. Forest Service is building camping and picnicking grounds to accommodate an additional 40,500 families. With additional thousands of American families camping in Canada and wayside places, it is easy to see why family camping is the most rapidly growing recreational use of parks and forests.

Camping used to be popular only among the hardy folks who were willing to tolerate mosquitoes, hard ground, and poison ivy. Great improvements have been made in camping equipment, and the family can now have the pleasure of outdoor living with many of the comforts of home. Tents are attractive and spacious, lightweight, and keep out obnoxious insects; bedding, mattresses or cots are now soft and comfortable.

Electricity is often available, or you have a choice of lanterns that are bright and clean. Cooking is simple, too, for efficient stoves are available which burn bottled gas or gasoline. No longer is it necessary to tolerate smelly, smokey stoves or slow fires. Clean, comfort stations with flush toilets, hot water, and showers are now available in many campgrounds. Laundry tubs and even ironing boards may be available for mothers who must combine housekeeping duties with pleasure. In view of the growing public interest in camping, the department of recreation in the College of Physical Education at the University of Illinois is sponsoring a Family Camping Show at Illini Grove on the University campus May 3 and 4. This show, sponsored in cooperation with manufacturers and dealers of camping equipment, will provide the public with the opportunity to inspect the latest types of camping equipment.

Navy Offers Scholarship For Civilian Student Engrs.

The Navy, seeking a solution to ease the civilian engineer shortage, is providing scholarships to help students from this area obtain a college engineering degree. The Navy, co-operating with four local universities, has established a co-operative work-study program for the students.

Qualified high school graduates and college students may obtain up to 50 per cent of the educational costs for a degree in engineering by being selected to participate as civilian student engineers in the Navy's Program for Civilian Engineers. They receive tuition aid while in school and salary while working. In fact, they may receive full tuition the first year if desired. This program does not put them into uniform.

In announcing the scholarship program, Rear Admiral E. P. Forrestel, USN, Commandant, Ninth Naval District, called it "the chance of a life-time." He explained that basic to the Navy program is the belief that too much engineering talent is not being developed because too many potential engineers simply can't afford an engineering education.

"Therefore, to help provide our country with the engineers it needs and will continue to need" Admiral Forrestel said, "the Navy has worked out a half-work, half-study program which includes salary during work periods, plus scholarship aid for payment of the cost of college tuition and fees. This scholarship aid amounts to approximately $2000. The scholarship does not include payment for living expenses. In addition, while participating in the program he will earn approximately $5000 in his work assignments. This just about eliminates the financial strain of college."

Plans to fit the program into both Navy and college routines were mapped out by Navy, college and local high school officials. On-the-job work is an essential element in the educational program. By combining work and study the student engineer serves his "internship" in engineering while going to school. Satisfactory on-the-job performance is included in the requirements for graduation. The Student's on-the-job training is related to his academic engineering training in the classroom. Just as the curriculum is arranged to accomplish an educational objective, employment assignments are carefully planned to reach the objective of practical experience.

Here's how the program works. First, the young man must be either an engineering student, a high school graduate, or a member of the June 1958 high school graduating class. Next, he must pass a Civil Service examination. And finally, he must pass the college entrance examination and/or meet other requirements for admission to the participating college. Colleges in the Midwest presently participating are: Illinois Institute of Technology, Northwestern University, Marquette University and Purdue University. The length of training will vary depending on the curriculum of the participating college and the academic level of the student entering the program. For example, the length of work-study for a high school graduate with no previous engineering education, will run from five to five and a half years. The length of the program for advanced students, already enrolled in a college engineering curriculum, will depend on the number of courses completed. High school graduates will be rated according to their scores on the Civil Service test. College students will be rated on the basis of academic credits earned.

After graduation, the students agree to work for the Navy as civilian engineers for a period up to 18 months or less depending on the amount of financial aid received. Selective service requirements enable the students to complete the entire work-study program without being drafted.

After receiving his engineering degree, the student engineer earns the title of Professional Engineer and immediately receives a $1000 increase in salary. Three months after graduation he becomes eligible for a promotion and another increase of $1000 per year.

Additional information may be obtained from Mr. Lee Kilbourne, Coordinator of Engineer Training, Consolidated Industrial Relations Department, Naval Supply Depot, Great Lakes, Illinois, telephone Delta 8-3500, extension 8429 or 8430.

Routing the Flu

Spring is always welcome, and this year Americans can greet the budding season with a special sign of relief. For with each mild, sunny day, it becomes less likely that we need fear another outbreak of the Asian flu which was the most alarming new threat to health in recent history.

In retrospect, The Health News Institute points out, two phases of the Asian flu story are appropriate cause for satisfaction. One was the "crash" program whereby American pharmaceutical industry achieved quantity production of the immunizing vaccine in record time. The other was the prompt and effective educational campaign which alerted the nation to its danger.

In mid-May, 1957, the U. S. Public Health Service sent prototypes of a virus to six manufacturers as the first step in the development of an immunizing vaccine. Just 82 days later, on August 12, the first lots of vaccine were released. And before Christmas, the HNI reports, total output was in excess of 54 million doses.

"The rapid production and distribution of the vaccine during the Fall months unquestionably reduced the impact of the epidemic," Dr. LeRoy E. Burney, U. S. Surgeon General, has said. "Many millions of persons, we can be certain, did not contract Asian influenza because of the protection of the vaccine."

The annual report of one of the manufacturers reveals that the company spent $3,000,000 to make its share of the vaccine without a cent of profit. Yet, in the words of the firm's president, "under similar circumstances we would do the same thing again."

As for the cooperation of the press and other media in informing the people, "probably never before in the history of the Nation," according to J. Stewart Hunter, information officer of the Public Health Service, "has the public become so quickly and so well informed on a matter of public health."

The World's Most Widely Used
Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Philipians 4:1-8.

This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it. (Psalm 118:24.)

George Muller of Bristol, England, has been described as "one poor man who, dependent on the help of God only in answer to prayer, . . . built five large Orphan Homes and took into his family over ten thousand orphans and expended for their good nearly a million pounds." One might imagine that a man with such vast responsibilities would be heavily burdened.

Yet George Muller wrote, "I see . . . that the first great and primary business of life to which I ought to attend every day is to have my soul happy in the Lord." Soul-happiness requires complete certainty of the present availability of the goodness of God.

Many of us go about in a gray state of feeling, neither seriously worried nor yet really happy. We can emerge from the gray mist by lifting our thought above it into the certainty that God is in charge and all is well.

Prayer

Dear Father, enable us this day to feel Thy living presence and to know beyond doubt that Thou knowest our need, hearest our call, and art abundantly answering. Fill us with perfect trust in Thee. We ask it in the name of Christ, who came that our joy might be full. Amen.

Thought for the Day

God is here, and all is well.—Margaret Sheldon (British West Indies.)

TAX FACTS

"Under the guise of 'anti-recession' moves, the Federal spending faucet is wide open," Maurice W. Scott, Executive Secretary of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois said today. Scarcely a day passes in Congress but that some big spending measure is introduced or hastily passed.

There is now a multitude of spending proposals on the fire. A recent compilation by the Federation shows that if all were passed, some $32 billion might be spent over the long haul, and authority would be given to spend anywhere from 17 1/2 billion to $21 billion in fiscal 1959, beginning this July 1. This is in addition to the $74 billion budget. Everything from A to W—from aid to works (public)—is on the schedule.

Congress is now in Easter recess and the members are talking to the people back home. During such conversations the people, the taxpayers, should discuss five basic points with their Congressmen:

First, pump priming proposals endanger financial resources which may yet be needed to meet military necessities or emergencies.

Second, public works program of the P.W.A. and W.P.A. type are not real cures for a recession and, in fact, many economists believe that their ineffectiveness was proved in the depression 25 years ago.

Third, increased Federal handout spending proposals to State and local governments are certain to result in further erosion of State and local government self-reliance.

Fourth, greatly increased Federal spending, at levels now proposed and discussed, will certainly adversely affect the prospects for prudent tax reduction.

Fifth, larger Federal deficits which result from increased spending proposals are an open invitation to more inflation and there is no such thing as "just a little inflation," once begun.

Taking our cue from the President, who recently deplored any panic as a basis for Federal spending activities, now is the time for all of us to remain cool. We should favor necessary expenditures for our national defense and security, but we should be especially cool to spending schemes that bring higher taxes or more inflation induced by government borrowing. Even the currently unemployed and the yet unborn may find in future years that they're paying for these counter measures—and paying heavily.

Grass Lake Cubs Get Achievement Awards

Pack night for Grass Lake Cub Pack 80 was Thursday, March 27. The boys of Den 1 opened the meeting with a flag ceremony.

George Pierce, committee chairman, and Bob Hart, institutional representative, both spoke on the necessity of finding new leaders for our pack. We are well supplied with Den Mothers but need some of the Dads to help out on the committee.

Earl Beese, who was chairman of the Scout-o-rama, gave a report on the success of that venture and presented to the treasurer a check for $28.14 made from sale of tickets. Karl Hawkins, Tommy Wojnowiak, and Charles Robertson received prizes for high ticket sales. Mr. Beese gave out badges for the boys who participated in Scout-o-rama.

Following is a list of achievement awards given to the boys at this meeting: Richard Hart, Dennis Lindworth, Donald Davidson, Bruce Pierce, William Cogdill, and Michael Lishamer—Bobcat.

Terry Witkowski and Phil Muller—Bear Badge.

Frank Muller—Wolf Badge.

Gordon Pierce and Donald Walsh—Lion Badge.

Brandon Schaefer—Gold Arrow under Bear.

Leonard Rozek—Gold and Silver Arrow under Wolf.

Danny Coons—Gold and Silver Arrow under Wolf.

Terry Drucker—Silver Arrow under Wolf.

Robert Sedivec and Brandon Schaefer—Service Star.

James Cogdill received a Graduation Certificate in a ceremony which graduated him from Webelos to Boy Scouts. He was welcomed into the Boy Scout Troop by Fred Brown, the Scoutmaster.

In addition, awards were made to several of the leaders: Elaine Wojnowiak and Doris Pierce received certificates of appreciation for their services as Den Mothers.

Service Stars were awarded to the following committee members for their services in the past year: George Pierce, chairman; Michael Wojnowiak, cubmaster; James Dobson, secretary-treasurer; Marilyn Cogdill, Elaine Wojnowiak, Doris Pierce, and Ann Pierce.

Boys of Den 6, led by Den Mother Kay Schaefer, sang a song, "Goodnight, Cub Scouts."

The meeting was adjourned so that everyone could enjoy the refreshments served by the mothers of Den 1, whose Den Mother is Joanne Robertson. Everyone was interested in seeing the displays made by the various dens this month. The theme was Alaska and there were many interesting exhibits of dog sleds, Eskimo villages, maps, snow shoes, snow goggles, etc.

U. of I. Food Report

Chicago Retail Food Markets April 14-19

CHICAGO—Area food buyers are on a balance this week, noting "delicate situations" and "gentle movements" wherein little adjustments can produce big changes.

On one hand, long stabilized major grocery lines are beginning to feel the pinch of heavy demand and a corresponding shortage of replacement crops. Prices start to go up, notably on some items.

On the other hand, high priced meats may be coming into a significant spring downturn. Some major softening at wholesale already is noted. In this market flip-flop, lower cost meats would serve as the stabilizing influence previously held by processed foods in the grocery department.

The net change to family food budgets would be little, however.

According to the University of Illinois consumer service, which keeps a weekly tab on area food costs and marketing factors, there are other conditions that could easily upset these prognostications.

1. Meat buyers actually are drumming their fingers in price indecisions for the current week. An estimated difference between Chicago livestock arrivals of 13,000 and 20,000 head early week can mean: continuing high prices if arrivals are short of expectation; or immediate lower wholesale with late-week retail drops to follow if the larger volume is shipped in by farmers.

2. Expectations frustrated by weather have long been the condition in produce markets. More of what has already been experienced can only worsen the fresh fruits and vegetable picture, and it will take a drastic improvement supplywise in new-crop arrivals to repair the damage.

3. Now that processed foods are beginning to move off the shelves faster than replacements are coming in from the fields via processors, many of these prices begin to move up. Conditions of point two above have further impact on these grocery lines.

4. The larger population, meaning more mouths to feed, and less flexible consumer food demands have offset any depressing effect of unemployment. If anything, evidence indicates so-called economy foods have been "bid up" on demand, particularly economy meats.

It is well to pause here for this observation—consumers can credit oft-criticized "over production" of basic support crops for what little cost-of-living stability they have enjoyed until now. It is the storage stocks, surpluses grown when farmers were wallowing in their own recession three years ago, and now recovering, that served as the hedge against higher grocery prices.

Grocery values for the week ending April 19 are coffee, tuna, corp, peas, green beans and asparagus.

Some groceries showing price advances as demand works off surplus stocks include sugar, citrus juices, tomato products and dry beans. Asparagus, peas and corn are still stable due to surpluses.

In fresh produce, spinach is higher and will cost more in canned and frozen variety as a grocery item. New potatoes and onions are higher, following the price pattern of older stocks. Fresh citrus is higher, reflecting in new cost increases for processed forms. Louisiana strawberries are improved supplywise, with price concessions showing, but a dearth of California grown indicates high strawberry costs this season.

Lowest cost fresh produce values are carrots, real cheap; snap beans, down price-wise, as expected; asparagus, a real value, and lettuce, a bit easier in cost; bananas, avocados and pineapple.

Poultry leads meat market values for the week; fryers, capons and caponettes lower priced; stewing hens little changed, and turkeys firming slightly after a tremendous Easter run. Slight wholesale drops already noted peg pork chops, beef roasts and steaks, and lamb shoulder roasts in the value slot. Red meats, however, bear watching by the end of the week as some changes could occur.

Dairywise, the values are: Large grade A white eggs, up just a fraction on market adjustments; 90-score butter, also slightly higher but virtually moving from stores at cost, and brick cheese.

Dr. Albert W. Herre Wrote About Ill. Spring

Urbana-Champaign, Ill.—Illinois prairies in the spring three-quarters of a century and more ago were a vast flower garden, stretching to the horizons, according to the description in a University of Illinois Press book.

"Vascular Plants of Illinois," is a sober and somewhat ponderous listing, but in its introduction is a vivid account of the natural prairie during the latter part of the 19th century.

This was written by Dr. Albert W. Herre, world-famous naturalist, now 90 and living in Santa Cruz, Calif. As a youth he lived in Illinois, where he was a newspaperman, high school teacher, and from 1890 to 1900 assistant school superintendent in Springfield.

He wrote: "One of the most marvellous sights of my whole life, unsurpassed in my travels in nearly all parts of the world, was that of the prairie in the spring. Unfading are my memories of that waving, rippling sea of lavender when the wild sweet william, a species of phlox two or three feet in height, was in full flower. It stretched away in the distance farther than the eye could reach.

"As the sea of phlox faded, it was succeeded by another marvellous flower bed of nature's planting, and this in turn by others until mid-summer was reached. Then the great coarse perennials belonging to the Compositae dominated, and instead of a single mass of color there was a vast garden of purple cone flowers, black-eyed susans, rosinweeds, blazing stars, asters, goldenrods, and others.

"Every spring and fall the prairie was covered with water, so that the whole countryside was a great lake. All day long swarms of water birds filled the air, and far in the night their cries sounded overhead. At the first gleam of dawn, vast flights of ducks dashed to and fro, and great flocks of wild geese sped swiftly across the sky.

"The advent of tile drainage early in the 80's completed the transformation of the prairie into ordinary farm land, and brought in many more people. Of course the ducks and geese stopped coming, for there was neither water nor food to attract them.

"Migratory flocks of snipe and plover continued to come for a couple of decades, but their numbers had dwindled to a mere trickle when I left Illinois in 1900. The crawfish and bullfrogs disappeared in a hurry, and the prairie chickens were destroyed by the combined effort of the plow and shot gun. "I returned to the region several summers during the 90's, but the prairie as such had disappeared, and of course its characteristic life with it. What a pity that some of it could not have been preserved, so that those born later might enjoy its beauty also. Now it is merely flat unending corn fields, and moderns may look on this article as only the iridescent childish romance of an old man."

Help Your Daughter Become a Happy Adult

If you want your daughter to grow up to be a happy successful woman, your influence had better make itself felt now if you want it to be effective, according to the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine. In a copyrighted article, "Help Your Daughter Plan Ahead," the editors give some tips to anxious mothers and fathers on raising teen-aged girls.

During her teens, a girl is a bundle of contradictions, the editors point out. Outwardly independent, she is inwardly baffled and frightened by what lies ahead. So the confidence your daughter needs to take any new situation in stride has to be developed. And this requires the tact and patience of a master diplomat.

Beware of being overprotective and overbearing. She must learn to think for herself. Don't push her to join a club or dictate who her friends should be.

Open up her own capabilities and interests to her. Show her that you are pleased with her and her regard for herself will grow.

Don't be overcritical of her mannerisms, language or dress. Remember times change. She will have to grow up, not in your world, but in hers.

Induct her into the arts of cooking, housekeeping, dressing, conversing, dealing with men, caring for children. Give intelligent attention to what she says about books, politics, people—don't make her feel that she's "nothing but a girl."

Help your daughter set goals: Your job is not to yank her back to earth from her dreams of fame or glamor, but to help her understand that her life can be meaningful.

This means she must become an adult woman who has the ability to love and work whether the work is in her home or office or both. To help her learn how to love, there must be plenty of it around your house. And, to help her learn how to draw satisfaction from her work, lead her toward understanding of her role as a woman.

Point out that she doesn't have to compete with men to prove she's as good as they are. Help her learn that becoming a wife and mother is the healthy and happy fulfillment of her nature.

"If medical science really wanted to help the human race, it would come up with a good explanation for a black eye."—Paul Crume.
